How to Search on Baby Come Home

International Child Search Alliance

Baby Come Home \(Baobeihuijia\) is Chinese website started by Chinese parents whose children were abducted or went missing. It was created to help Chinese citizens find missing relatives. It has listings of Chinese birth parents looking for children, domestic Chinese adoptees looking for their birth parents, ads for lost adults, and international adopted children looking for birth parents.

You can search the database to see if there is anyone who matches your information. Remember that it's possible you were born in a province different from the one where you were adopted and that your birthdate may not be exact, so don't narrow your search too much.

Instructions

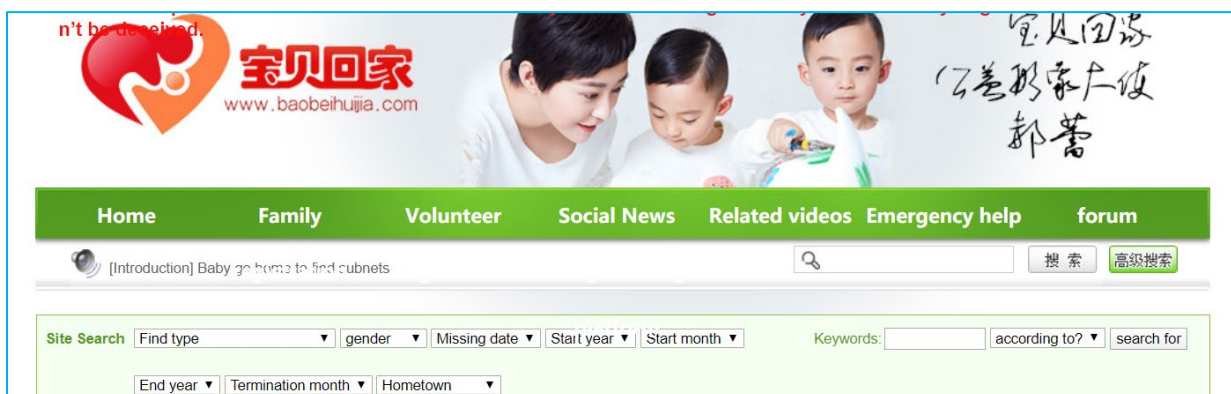

Since this is a Chinese language site, use Google Chrome to automatically translate pages to English. Go to baobeihuijia.com.

Click on the green button to get to the search screen

Note: If you have trouble with a drop down from the menu above interfering with your selection, just use the tab key on your keyboard to move between boxes and arrow and enter keys to select or type your selection.

This is the search screen:

To look for family who may be looking for you

Change the circled drop boxes and put the earliest and last possible dates you could have been reported as missing. Don't put province in unless you're certain you were born in the province of your adoption.

Then click search for
